Key Takeaways

The cost of an elevator distribution box in Madagascar typically ranges from $500 to $2,500 USD, depending on specifications, brand, and installation requirements.Cost Factors

• Type and Capacity: Elevator distribution boxes vary by voltage, current rating, and number of circuits. Standard machine room boxes for small passenger elevators are generally less expensive, while high-capacity or custom boxes for freight or multi-deck elevators cost more .

• Brand and Quality: International brands like TKE or MBT-MS-Y may be more expensive due to import costs, while local suppliers may offer competitive pricing with standard compliance .

• Installation and Customization: Local companies such as Guilmann in Madagascar provide tailored solutions, including installation and maintenance. Prices may increase if the box requires custom engineering, integration with smart control systems, or compliance with specific safety standards .

• Shipping and Import Fees: If sourcing from international suppliers, shipping, customs duties, and taxes can significantly affect the final cost .
Local Procurement Options
• Guilmann Madagascar: Offers supply and installation of elevator electrical equipment, including distribution boxes, with customized solutions for residential, commercial, and industrial projects .

• Global Suppliers: Platforms like Alibaba list elevator power distribution boxes with prices starting around $500 USD, but shipping to Madagascar and local compliance must be considered .

• Local Market Research: Contacting local elevator service providers or distributors directly is recommended to obtain accurate quotes, as prices fluctuate based on demand, specifications, and exchange rates .
Recommendation

For budgeting purposes, expect $500–$2,500 USD per distribution box, with higher-end models for advanced or heavy-duty elevators. To get precise pricing, request a custom quote from local suppliers like Guilmann or international distributors who ship to Madagascar. This ensures compliance with local electrical standards and includes installation costs.
