Key Takeaways

Tropac NZ and Voltex Electrical are key manufacturers and suppliers of secondary distribution boxes in New Zealand.Key Manufacturers and Suppliers

1. Tropac NZ Tropac NZ specializes in a wide range of industrial electrical solutions, including floor-standing enclosures, wall-mounted data racks, terminal boxes, and distribution enclosures. They offer products in steel, stainless steel, and plastic, with options for IP-rated protection suitable for indoor and outdoor applications. Tropac also provides accessories such as locks, handles, vented doors, and thermal control components, making them a comprehensive supplier for secondary distribution needs in industrial and commercial settings (Tropac NZ) . 2. Voltex Electrical Voltex Electrical is a manufacturer and direct distributor of the VOLTEX brand of electrical accessories in New Zealand. They supply electrical enclosures and distribution boxes suitable for various applications, ensuring local availability and support for installation and maintenance (Voltex Electrical) . 3. PBTech For smaller-scale or network-specific distribution solutions, PBTech offers fibre termination and distribution boxes, including UV-stabilized plastic enclosures and lockable indoor/outdoor boxes with IP65 ratings. These are suitable for telecommunications and structured cabling projects (PBTech) .

Considerations When Choosing a Supplier
• Material and durability: Steel and stainless steel for heavy-duty or outdoor use; plastic for lightweight or indoor applications.

• IP rating: Ensures protection against dust and water ingress, critical for outdoor or industrial environments.

• Size and configuration: Wall-mounted, floor-standing, or pole-mounted options depending on installation requirements.

• Accessories and customization: Availability of locks, venting, and thermal management components.

• Local support: Manufacturers like Tropac and Voltex provide direct support and advice for installation and compliance with New Zealand electrical standards. These suppliers provide a combination of manufacturing, distribution, and customization, making them suitable for businesses or contractors seeking reliable secondary distribution boxes in New Zealand.
