Overview

Junction Box Cost Guide: Prices & Installation 2026A junction box can cost anywhere from around $10 for a simple indoor plastic box to several hundred doll.

Key Takeaways

The price of a 185 cable junction box typically ranges from approximately $240 to $370 per unit, depending on material, color, and supplier.Price Range and Factors

Based on Hensel catalog listings, a cable junction box suitable for 185 cables (likely corresponding to medium-sized IP66/67 weatherproof boxes) is priced as follows:

• Grey lid models: Around 240,000 to 370,000 in local currency units per unit, depending on exact size and cable capacity .

• Black lid models: Slightly higher, ranging from 300,000 to 370,000 per unit . The final price depends on several factors:

• Material: Plastic or polycarbonate boxes are more affordable, while metal or reinforced boxes cost more.

• Weatherproof rating: IP66/67 boxes designed for outdoor use are more expensive due to durability and protection against dust, water, and UV exposure .

• Size and cable capacity: Larger boxes that accommodate more cables or modules are priced higher.

• Supplier and shipping: Prices vary by distributor, and lead times may affect cost if the item is imported or custom-ordered .
Additional Considerations
• Installation costs: If professional installation is required, labor can add $100–$300 or more depending on complexity and location .

• DIY option: Purchasing the box alone for self-installation can save on labor costs, but ensure compliance with electrical codes.

• Bulk orders: Ordering multiple units may reduce per-unit cost, especially from industrial suppliers like Hensel or McMaster-Carr . In summary, for a 185 cable junction box, expect to pay roughly $240–$370 per unit, with variations based on material, color, and weatherproofing. For precise pricing, check the supplier catalog or request a quote from distributors like Hensel or authorized electrical supply stores.
